Child-Birth Made Easy.

TO MOTHERS.

YOU who are expecting to undergo the serious and important duty of bearing offspring, reflect upon the trials, troubles and dangerous risks that are before you, and then learn, that by the gift of Providence and the light of Science, a sure remedy for these consequences is known, by the use of which thousands are now performing the duties of Mothers with ease and safety, and with a perfect freedom from all pain or subsequent disease.

This remedy was discovered by the celebrated Dr Baudelocque, of Paris, and has been in use in France for the last ten years with the greatest success—being approved by the Royal Academy of Science in Paris. Dr A C Mortimer is the sole agent for the U S, and he sends his medicine by Mail, to any part of the Country, and the Genuine can be obtained of no one but him.

Price Two Dollars a package, containing full directions.

Persons desirous of obtaining this Great Remedy who reside at a distance, can do so by forwarding Two Dollars, post-paid, to

James S. Sayward,—Editor.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1848.

☞ It will be seen by our columns to-day that our correspondent "Bona Vista" engages with much vigor in the discussion of the subject of the approaching Presidential Election There is a difference of opinion even among good Whigs as to the course which the Whigs of the country should take in the nomination of their candidate for the next presidency Some think that the nomination of Mr Clay will give success to the Whigs while "Bona Vista" and others are of opinion that Gen Taylor is the only man with whom the Whigs can be sure of success

We feel that it is but just to all, to give a fair hearing to what may be said, throwing light upon the matter

Our own views have been fully expressed as decidedly in favor of a Whig National Convention, and the earnest support of the recommendations of that convention, by all Whigs The course we think will secure success, and put an end to the disasters which have, and ever will result from lookout role and miracle

"Bona Vista" speaks for himself, and he alone is responsible for the opinions he expresses

☞ We have received the annual Catalogue of Fruit-Trees, Shrubs Plants &c cultivated and for sale at the Saco Nurseries, by S L. Goodale, Esq Mr Goodale is a skillful cultivator, and those who buy of him will be sure to get what they buy and that in the matter of fruit trees is very desirable We do not see in his catalogue any mention of the Lincoln Pippin an apple which originated at Hallowell, and which is a thrifty grower a liberal and constant bearer and a rich table fruit Mr Goodale must introduce this apple into his collection, as its merits in the location of Hallowell have brought it into notice as worthy of general culture in Maine

☞ The Dover N H Gazette mentions the burning of a large block of stores, at Emery's Mills in this state, owned by Dr Stevens A store occupied by Mr, Enoch Wood, and the Baptist meeting House were much injured Loss $5000, no insurance

For the Whig and Courier.

The Presidency...Mr. Clay and General Taylor

"Strike, but hear me"

The opponents of the present administration, throughout the Union, are anxiously looking around for a suitable candidate for the next President It is quite probable that if most of the elements of opposition to the administration could be combined in the support of one man, his election might be considered as certain

The discussions on the subject of a candidate for the Whigs of the Union have settled down almost entirely on Mr Clay and Gen Taylor, and this too, in the Eastern States, although Mr Webster, has been nominated or recommended as the first choice of two of them Mr Webster appears to be given up as a candidate by those who would prefer, above all other men, to see him President of these United States His friends consider, probably, there is at this time no prospect of his election, if made the candidate of the Whig party Whether Mr Clay or Gen Taylor shall receive the support of the Whigs at the next election is the great question now under discussion among the Members of Congress and in the Whig press

All, who have paid the slightest attention to the progress of political events for the last four years, must see that the next Presidential election will be an eventful one for the United States The question must then be settled whether Mexico shall be subjugated by this Government, her name blotted from the catalogue of nations, and her people and territory annexed to the United States, or whether her nationality shall be preserved, and peaceful relations be again established between us The internal policy of the country, also, must be essentially affected by the next election

Since the formation of this Government, no election has been involved in so many questions of deep interest to the perpetuity of the Union, and domestic prosperity, as the next promises

Every thing depends on a wise and judicious course of the Whigs of the Union in the coming contest—it is in their power, in all probability, to make the next election of President a successful one, and terminate the present war, restore peace between this country and Mexico, and hold in their own hands the power to tranquilize the country on some of the most important principles of domestic policy In this contest almost every thing depends on the selection of the man on whom they will concentrate their efforts The Whig party in the free States has been seriously crippled by Abolitionism, and in Maine, it is been almost disorganized Native Americanism has also done its part to injure the Whigs in the Middle States And a considerable portion of the Whigs in the free States are strongly opposed to slavery, and object to a candidate from a slave State, although it is apparent that no candidate opposed to the present Administration, can be elected without a union of a portion of the slave and free States We may as well look at things as they are, and the difficulties in the face, that lie before us No good can come from a blind devotion to one man, or one man, nor should we be carried away by a false idea of glory for a military man, or enthusiasm for a political man, because these course best suits our political feelings and prejudices If we can effect our object better with one man than with another, let us take him—in a great many States, there are many active politicians zealous in the support of Mr. Clay, they are determined, if possible, to make him the candidate of the Whigs at the next election—they say his election is more than probable, that it is certain That Mr Clay would be preferred by a large portion of the Whig party, if he could be elected, there is no doubt

But facts convince us to say that there is not any reasonable hope of the election He has been three times a stand bide for President, already, a thing unheard of in any other man in the history of this country, and now at the age of seventy one is pressed for a fourth trial In 1824 Mr Clay was the candidate of the West, and being a local candidate did not obtain many electoral votes—there were four candidates—he received the least number of votes In 1832 he was the candidate of the National Republican party of the United States, was nominated by a National Convention, and was defeated by an overwhelming majority—he received but forty-nine electoral votes In 1844 he was unanimously nominated by a convention of Whigs at Washington, and under circumstances, which seemed sufficient to ensure his success—but he was defeated, and that too, by the smallest man ever elected to the place—At the time of his last nomination, his election was deemed certain by himself and friends—he was nobly sustained by the Whigs of the Union, and his defeat is now attributed to one of his own acts during the canvass,—the Alabama letter—this, however, is not probable

At the termination of the election he said his political life was ended—that he was never again to be a candidate for any public office, having spent the most of his life in the public service

But it is now said, he is willing to yield to the call of the country and be again a candidate and his friends claim that his chance of election is far better than any other man Is this so? Will the present state of parties in the country, and a record of the last election justify this assertion? In 1844, Mr Clay received 105 electoral votes—he received the electoral vote of 10 States These were, Kentucky 12, Massachusetts 12, Tennessee 13, Maryland 8, Rhode Island 4, New Jersey 7, North Carolina 11 Connecticut 6, Delaware 3, Ohio 23, Vermont 6, making in all 105 out of 275 electoral votes—Polk and Dallas received 170

At the next election there will be 30 States, and 290 electoral votes, if Wisconsin is admitted, and there is no doubt it will be It will be necessary for Mr Clay to obtain at the next election 146 electoral votes, 41 in addition to those he received at the last election Let us first see who he will probably hold on to 10 States, he got in '41, he we look for the balance to elect him In Tennessee, at the last election for President, the canvass was extremely violent, and the State carried for him by the indomitable perseverance of the Whigs by a popular majority in the State, of 113 votes out of 113,947

And there is no doubt the Whigs of Tennessee would not count another such contest, from the fact, that as soon as Mr Clay's friends seriously began to talk of him as a candidate a gun, they with perfect unanimity nominated Gen Taylor, as their candidate for 48 Gen T received a majority of both branches of the Legislature

Again, the people of Tennessee have had strong feeling on this war, and many of both political parties, have volunteered to go into Mexico It is not, therefore, probable he can again get her vote

Can he get the vote of Ohio? with Cass as a candidate against him—there would be no chance for it Cass is personally popular in that State,—is the favorite candidate of the democracy of the State Mr Clay obtained his vote against Polk by about 6,000 popular majority, out of 304,174 votes Polk was an unpopular man in that State, personally

It is not long since, that a favored Whig correspondent of the N Y Tribune, writing from Ohio, informed the readers of that paper, that Mr Clay could in no event again get the electoral vote of Ohio—that his course on the subject of slavery since 44 had not been satisfactory to the Whigs of that State—that he did not raise his voice, or use his influence against the mobs in Lexington, who destroyed the press of C M Clay, and that he could not again even get a majority in the Western Reserve—the strong hold of the Whigs in the State

These is then but little hope he should again get Ohio, but concede that he can, and all the other States be obtained in '44, with the exception of Tennessee, which has dominated Taylor, as the only man under whom the Whigs can hold the State, and whose nomination will be adhered to by the party—and how stands the case? Give him all but Tennessee and he will have 92 votes to elect, and where can he get the other 54 votes? The New York Tribune thinks he can get New York, in as much as the State is now in the hands of the Whigs and Anti renters Is it probable he can get New York? he has been the candidate twice in that state, and twice defeated It is not pretended that the abolitionists in that State will vote for him—they defeated him there before and there is no hope from them now they have nominated their candidate, John P Hale, and hailed their flag, a black one, to the mast—But it is pretended that the Democrats will vote for him in preference to Cass, who believes it? Such a belief or pretence is childish—concede to him New York in addition to his other 9 States, and he then wants 18 votes for an election Where will his friends go to get them? Why, they say he can get Pennsylvania—this has always been the story—it was put down for him as morally certain in 44—Polk the most unpopular man with the democracy of that State, ever held up and supported by them, carried it against Clay by over 6,000 majority

They might as well come to Maine—there is just as good reason to suppose he could carry this State as Pennsylvania—she is thoroughly locofocofied in her State government—the locos carried the State at the last election by a large majority—Now in, there any other remaining State where Mr Clay's chance is any better—no other State can be named where he has a remote prospect New York would have stood it before, but if he could get it it would not again; three new States have been admitted, which locos—and another to be admitted, also locos If 1840 he was proposed as a candidate, by his friends with great vigor, they then contended he could be elected—Gen Harrison succeeded in obtaining the nomination, and was elected by an overwhelming majority—what his wonderful success and the great number of States carried by him—the Whigs in 44 presented him again under the most favorable circumstances—the friends of Harrison were stimulated to his support by the cordial support likewise received from Clay and his friends, and also by the treason of John Tyler to both—add to all this James K. Polk was his competitor—the greatest man it was then thought, ever run by any party for a President, and nominated after a quarrel, to prevent a dissolution of their party

With these facts before us, it is singular that Mr. Clay's friends again press him—there is no general call for him from the Whig party—the larger portion of the Whigs are in favor of a new candidate—the bona fides do, generally feel for him as the Whig candidate and even now say many fine things of him—they know who would give them an easy victory

Penobscot Farming.

To the Committee on Crops appointed by Penobscot County Agricultural Society for 1847.

I hereby certify that I raised in the year 1847 two hundred and sixteen bushels of ears of corn on one rare and twenty nine rods of land It grew up on Allyn's soil, or rather a sandy loam, taken up from the mowing field About half the ground was ploughed in the fall, before planting

This land been mowed most of the time probably for 25 or 30 years Some twelve years ago it was ploughed, dressed lightly, planted with potatoes and sowed the next year with wheat, and seeded to grass, after this it was mowed one year pastured two, then planted and sowed as before, but without dressing, then mowed for a number of years till ploughed for corn The other half of the ground was planted with corn in 1840 and 41 having been well manured it yielded a fair crop, at the rate of 70 bushels per acre in 1840, and fifty bushels in 41 After seeding to grass it produced a good crop, probably not ess than two tons of hay per acre till ploughed The whole ground was ploughed generally from eight to nine inches in depth—as deep as my plough would run with a truck, though not so deep by several inches as I should wish to plough I spread upon the whole piece I should think 6 or 7 cords of manure from the barn, made the preceding winter That put upon the ground ploughed in the spring was spread on the grass and turned under, that put upon the part ploughed in the fall was spread upon the top and worked in as well as it could be without ploughing it After preparing the ground it was furrowed one way north and south I then took old yard manure and manure made the winter before from the horse stable and pig stye, and night soil mixed with earth, and put a small shovel full in a hill, each kind of manure by itself In this way I dressed ninety rods of ground, the rows running across both that which was ploughed in the fall and spring, and planted upon it the 22 day of May 4 quarts of small eight rowed corn, mostly 3 kernels in a hill, intending to have let but 3 or at most 4 stalks to grow, but it was hoed in my absence by boys who thought a patty to pull up good corn so they left it all to grow On harvesting, husking, and measuring this by itself I found the 90 rods produced one hundred and twenty six bushels of ears I shelled two bushels of ears and measured from it one bushel and five quarts of corn On that calculation we have at the rate of one hundred, twenty one and a half bushels per acre This would not unlikely shrink some although it was very hard ears and sound when gathered

The remainder of the piece, being ninety nine rods, I dressed with a preparation from unfermented sheep manure and leached ashes, in the proportion of one part of ashes to about seven of manure, putting perhaps three shovels in a hill, and dropped the corn of a large hand upon it without first covering the manure The consequence was, much of the corn failed to grow, I should think at least one third, but what did vegetate showed a most luxuriant growth and where there were three or more stalks in a hill they produced as many or more large ears, but generally where there was but one or two stalks in a hill there were no large ears, but for the most part they set for from three to five ears so late they were all short and many of them green at harvesting Thus 99 rods produced 90 bushels of corn, from which I selected two bushels of the largest ears and shelled them, and on measuring the corn found it lacked one quart of a bushel, at this rate yielding a little over 70 bushels per acre, while the result entirely produced at the rate of 120 bushels per acre The difference in the produce of the two parts of the piece, I attribute, to the unsuitableness of the manure on which the large sand was planted, it being such as to kill much of the seed But comparatively light as the yield was, when added to that of the other part of the piece, we have 96½ bushels per acre This is the ratio on the acre and twenty nine rods With the most of my corn I planted Beans, dropping generally three on the north side of the hill From four quarts of the white egg beans, I had four and a half bushels, and from about the same quantity of ground, planted with the long white bush beans, I had nine and a half bushels, making in all grown among my corn, fourteen bushels I had also one large wagon load of pumpkins most of them very small, (and a host of vines) The pumpkins were planted with the large corn and on the sheep manure, and were probably much less productive than they would have been if planted on the other dressing

I would here remark that the superiority of this crop over what I had formerly raised I think was not owing to ploughing the ground deeper than usual, for I had been in the habit for many years of ploughing my ground as deep as I could well do, nor to the great amount of manure applied, but to the extra labor in pulverizing it the earth above, he god, thus preparing the whole ground for the freely admission and extension of the small roots through which nourishment was conveyed to the stalk and ear After the ground was ploughed it was prepared for furrowing by the forcible use of a heavy cultivator and a light harrow, the cultivator had seven teeth, each weighing eleven pounds, and eight inches in length below the head The manner of planting too, I think had something to do in remunerating me for my labor; this was done by making the rows but three feet apart, and the hills two feet or less apart in the rows I would also state that my large variety of corn was not planted till the 22 of May owing to a rain that rendered the ground too wet to go on with a cart, or to move with a hoe. I consider it of a very great importance that the land should be sufficiently dry when tended by a plough harrow, hoe or any other tool to operate right after it has been stirred. I will say further that my corn was hoed but once, and a cultivator used instead of a plough or harrow.

I should also add that I think the small right sowed on the old and comparatively worn land produced more in proportion than any variety with which I am acquainted, and is much more likely to get ripe in the unfavorable season

Jonathan and John Bull.

There is, at present, a very strong likeness between Brother Jonathan and John Bull We are both fond of money, and fond of power; we both claim especial attributes without very much caring whether our pretensions are entirely palatable to the rest of the world We both consider ourselves entitled to throw our way through the great crowd of nations wherever an opening, or a quarrelling set of ribs may be found We both manage very abstractedly, except when some particular interest suggests the necessity of practical views We both spread our talk to prosperity and we find the secret of its continuance Once a year, at least, we both "take stock" and get up a satisfactory account of our national affairs We both are apt to presume on a trifling redundance of wealth or of power to make a plunge into the future without looking before we leap, by counting the cost Yankees and Britishers are much the same for all this We laugh at them, and they laugh at us Both, however, will do well to bear in mind the old rhyme, family record fence Monkeys are disgusting because they are only too like the human kind Whatever the Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Americans may see to censure in one another, may do them good to remember that there is something very like it in themselves

Religious Freedom.

What is religious freedom but the free, unshackled development of mind and truth! It is an old proverb that 'truth can not only stand a free stage and no favor,' why then seek to smother her with endowments? Freedom would secure a free stage and no favor to every man and to every truth But what is incompatible with endowments? Gamaliel spoke the language of freedom when he said of Christianity 'Leave it alone if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it but if it be of man it will perish of itself' This freedom in religion is the most efficient test of both principle, and especially is this the case among all enlightened people Truth needs no protection it must be a plant of a slow growth, but like the trifle oak, it is all the more enduring for that If we attempt to force it, we impair its vigor and strength. It is the steady but stately oak of the forest and not the tender plant of the hot house, which is able to withstand storms and tempests, and give shelter to man and beast So truth, to endure the jars shocks and revolutions of states, and guide men at last to the haven of peace and happiness, must be the free, spontaneous growth of an unbiassed mind and not the crushed offspring of doubts and suspicion The moment you 'endow' a truth—the instant you put it under protection—you deprive it of a certain portion of its power, for you make it suspected Surely that which is omnipotent needs not the petty arm of man to sustain it—Truth is, in fact, like the muscle of the body, weakened by swaddling and supports and strengthened most by free exercise.—Carpenter

Mr Douglass made a speech on the Ten Regiment bill. He defended the war and the President

In the House—

The President's message was discussed in committee Mr Morse defended the administration

Mr Vinton moved a reference to appropriate committees

Mr Wilmot moved in amend by instructing the committee on Ways and Means to consider the expediency of laying a direct tax of $6,000,000, which was adopted by a vote of 90 to 79, but the House adjourned before taking the main question.

Foreign Items.

Public order is gradually recovering its influence in Switzerland, and the army raised for the suppression of the insurrection of the small cantons is being disbanded.

A note has been received by the Vorort from the Pope, in which his Holiness deplores the intelligence which has reached him of the expulsion from Switzerland of religious bodies solemnly guaranteed by the contract of 1815, and various acts of sacrilege committed in churches—events which have filled his eyes with tears His Holiness makes no mention of the name of Jesuits

A fresh persecution of the Christians has broken out in Corea and nine native Christians—the first of a Roman Catholic priest in Cochin China—have been murdered

A letter from Magdeburg, states that the entire incorporation of the Kingdom of Poland with the Russian empire is decided upon, and will take place on June 1, 1848

The German papers state that the number of Emigrants preparing to leave Germany next year from Germany is greater than in any previous year

Letters from Lisbon say the news from Galicia intensifies Carlism and discredit are committing such awful ravages amongst the peasantry, that almost every village is in a flame, and even the half of the population is dead

The Paris papers just received report Louis Philippe had really been seriously ill, and that in consequence a considerable decline in the Rentes had taken place

A disturbance took place at Milan on the 31 ult on account of a placard containing a song distributed in Milan reminding the people that in the American struggle for independence the people voluntarily abstained from the use of tea with a view to damage the revenue of the British Government—this conduct was commended to the population of Lombardy, with regard to tobacco which constitutes an immense source of revenue to the Austrian government. This was followed by a demonstration of the people treading with insult and sometimes with violence, all who were met in the streets with cigars

CANADIAN VERMIFUGE!

A CERTAIN REMEDY FOR WORMS

THIS remedy is safe in its operation on children and adults, either than any other

Does the patient complain of Heavy stomach in children in the beginning to Worms. They are a real nuisance upon children, and are the cause of more than one half the disease and pain. Many parents to, for this subject more attention, and carefully observe the symptoms which indicate the existence of worms in bowels, the latter of many children would no doubt be saved. Some of the symptoms are as follows the countenance is of a pale or leaden color, and unfluenced with occasional flushes the eyes are heavy and dull, frequent itching at the mouth and the sleep disturbed the patient often awakening in great fright, and is liable to starting and grinding the teeth the appetite is irregular but in many cases voracious and at other times feeble occasionally vomiting &c

Winer's Canadian Vermifuge has acquired a reputation surpassing any other medicine of the kind, and is daily increasing in popularity wherever it is known and used, it is universally approved it powers in a proportion which no other article of the kind does, is more powerful and effectual in its operation and entirely free from ingredients which have any but a beneficial effect, the health of the patient being always improved even when no worms are discovered Physicians practice it and have the testimonials of men in high standing who resides in Cleaveland, Ohio, consider it the only article of the kind he ever saw that was so uniform and prompt in expelling worms it may in fact be relied on with the utmost confidence, as it has never failed in a single case, the reason why all who have used it feel not one any other

We have in our possession a number of certificates from physicians and others of the highest respectability both in this and other States, and recommend it as a never failing remedy

READ AND BE CONVINCED

We, the undersigned have frequently administered a medicine prepared by Mr John Winer put this town designated as Winer's Canadian Vermifuge, and being fully satisfied with its efficacy confidently recommend it as a safe and efficient remedy for the expulsion of worms from the intestinal canal

Hamilton, C W, Oct 11th 1847

New York March 30th 1847

Messrs J Winer & Co Sirs—My child of five years of age, was for more than two years severely afflicted with worms, during which time we gave her different medicines recommended in such cases, but they produced no beneficial effect. At length procured a bottle of your Canadian Vermifuge and gave it to her which caused her to pass a large number of worms, since then she has been in the enjoyment of perfect health. From my own experience, I would recommend your Vermifuge as being the most safe and effectual remedy for worms now in use Yours truly,

C G SNETHEN, 30 Ravingles st.

☞Be particular and remember the name of Winer's Canadian Vermifuge," that is the only article that can be depended on Remember this.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT is well known that there is secreted in the stomach a fluid which is called Gastric Juice, that the food when taken into the stomach is acted upon by this Gastric Juice, which is now convert of into a pulpy substance called Chyme, this pass and into the upper portion of the Intestinal canal, there becomes mixed with Bile and Pancreatic Juice, and is by reabsorbed men termed Chyle, a portion of which goes to fit state to be and is taken up by small vessels called Lacteals, carried into the system, and converted into Blood The food after being changed becomes assimilated, grows nourishment and supplies the waste of the body, this is the process and effect of Digestion

Now reported therefrom, that the digestive organs perfor a finer function properly There are also innumerable sympathies existing between the Dyspepsia Stomach and distant parts of the body, some few of those facts of which are here given—Sick Head ache, Nausea and Vomiting Low Spirits Despair, Mental Derangement, Irregularity of Pulse Palpitation of the Heart, Difficulty of Breathing often cause the patient or his friends to suspect incurable Organic Disease, all of which might have been prevented by timely attention to Dyspeptic symptoms and proper treatment I would also be known that these troubles not unfrequently, exist as the effect of disturbances of the Digestive Organs when the ordinary Dyspeptic symptoms are not discernable one should be treated accordingly The diagnostic effect of a deranged digestion is an important truth, and cannot too forcibly be contemplate

A consider bound of these facts and observations for more than a quarter of a century in Chronic Diseases the first progress and end have led the Proprietor to the unequivocal conviction that there is in the whole catalogue of medicine a combination which is better fitted than a blister to remove the far more complicated cases of these dreadful maladies The result of his research, and much experience is now offered with great confidence to the public in

Alterative and Tonic Mixture,

as the best of a combination known for enhancing the natural secretions of the stomach, and giving strength to that organ and for removing many troubles attributed to impurity of the blood

In the cure of Dyspepsia it possesses great power, promoting a healthy action of the stomach and correcting a vitiated state of the fluids concerned in digestion thus removing the cause of many distressing symptoms which are known to arise from this cause

In action a class of both of said Alterative and Tonic restoring he stimulant strength often without producing any sensible evacuation, just without leaving behind any unpleasant effect on the constitution

By its use the Appetite becomes regular and good Digest on perfect Sick Head ache and nervous Debility never grow up out of imperfect digestion are generally cured persons of debilitated constitutions become healthy and strong by its use

By reason of the sympathy between the stomach and the skin many Diseases of the latter grow out of a morbid state of the former, upon whom the ordinary symptoms of Dyspepsia are wanting and are cured by this medicine

Many troubles of children supposed to arise from worms, are caused by a deranged state of the stomach and are promptly driven away by it

Persons both adult and children left feeble by protracted illness, on the same principle are restored to health and strength by taking it.

It contains no alcoholic ingredient, and cannot be any case do harm

DISEASES OF THE Throat and Lungs.

COUGHS and Colds the fruitful parents of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pleurisy, and many other dangerous diseases that lead to an early and untimely grave, should be checked at the first symptom of their approach, and the Pectoral Balsam of Wild Cherry is the remedy that has been found to accomplish this object. Dr. Wistar, who administered it to thousands, and the Faculty generally, have borne testimony to its virtues, and the Public have given it their unqualified approbation. Simply because he does not resort to the proper remedy, but treats the disease as a local affair, a Physician loses a host of valuable patients, who have been cured by the use of this invaluable medicine. Hence they are lost to the profession and to society. Of the many cases of this kind that have come under the observation of the proprietor, he will only mention a few.

Mr. Jonathan Ingersoll, of Woodbury, N. J., was cured of a severe cough, which had reduced him so low that his friends thought he could not live a week. Mr. Ingersoll is now in good health, and actively engaged in business.

Mr. Jacob Hoffman, of Reading, Pa., was cured of a cough, which had resisted the skill of the most eminent physicians, and which had reduced him so low that he was unable to walk across the room without assistance
